BINARC, Zenius Corp. Unveil Innovative Self-Audit Offering*Robust IT, Financial Methodologies Merged to Form Unified Approach to Overcome Long-standing Challenges*

(Arlington, VA) – Organizations of all types now have a single source for the best of both IT and financial internal audits.

BINARC and Zenius Corp. have partnered to develop a new methodology that delivers a comprehensive approach to self-initiated audits. Far from simply merging BINARC's IT and Zenius' financial expertise to create a modular or concurrent audit program, however, their joint methodology provides a much more holistic, integrated strategy that accounts for the complex and interrelated regulatory landscape with which so many companies struggle.

"While many organizations understand the need for self-initiated IT and financial auditing, there is far too often a disconnect between methodologies, and that can pose serious risks to the overall effort," explained Danny Harris, Ph.D., Senior Strategic Advisor to BINARC and former U.S. Department of Education CIO.

"By themselves, any two methodologies might be sufficient—but it can be difficult to effectively coordinate them across the entire lifecycle," added Zenius Corp. CEO Prasanna Amitabh. "Our partnership with BINARC ensures that we can maximize the benefits of our respective and vigorous methodologies within a single, cohesive strategy."

Self-initiated audits are increasingly recognized for their value in empowering organizations to identify and resolve potential regulatory concerns prior to external audits. Generally, it is much more desirable for an organization to discover a problem itself—when it can still do something about it—than for the problem to be revealed for the first time during an external audit. However, the benefits by no means stop there.

"Beyond regulatory compliance, self-initiated audits are vital for optimizing overall business operations, maintaining continuous improvement, and reducing risks," Harris continued. "There is little doubt as to the cost-benefit of such audits. Organizations are wise to incorporate them into their standard operations."
